FLOWERS AND TROPICAL FRUITS

Abound-A Paradise for Beauty. Pleasures of a Trip Over the Plains, If You Have Nothing to Occupy Your Time It is Monotonous-Irrigation and Farming-A Street Car Line on Which the Horses Ride.

CHINO, CAL., August 3 .- The person who starts to cross the continent determined to live on the way, and provide himself with books and papers and some means of amusement, and tries to make himself agreeable to his fellow passengers, will enjoy the trip from Chicago to California, but, like the little boy who when questioned about what he studied at school, "Do you read?" "No." "Do you spell?"
"No." "Write?" "No." "Well, then, what do you do?" "I just wait for school to let out"-the person who gets on board his train and just waits to see California will get very tired and feel disgusted before he reaches it, for there is a great deal of sameness in crossing the plains.

One is struck with wonder at beholdone is struck with wonder as constaining the vast extent of barren plain which Uncle San's domain contains, for he will ride for many miles in Arizona and New Mexico and Southeastern California and see only au occa-sional village or railroad stations per-haps twenty-five miles apart. But when we see in this land what has been ac haps twenty-five miles apart. But when we see in this land what has been accomplished by irrigation we feel that these deserts may yet all be made to bloom and bring forth fruit for man. The Pomona Time, a Southern California paper, said recentles "Pretty soon there will be no more deserts. Not many years ago the school geographics represented all the great the foreign of the continent the Great American Besert. This geographical division is unknown to the school children of to-day. States and territories cover it. They embrace towns and cities with all modern improvements and conveniences. Every vegetable and grain and most all the fruits and flowers are growing upon the desert in great profusion. Millions of acres that were thought to be waterless and known to be treeless, are now checkered with canais and water pipes and the laud is being covered with trees and flowers.

"Arizons is a conspicuous example of the whole. Twenty-three years ago there was not a cultivated acre, except a few by Indians, along the 400 miles of the 6th giver valley. The broad Sait river willey was occupied by the cayotes that half the year around were almost surved to death, and now it has aimost tens of thousands of successful tillers of the soit, towns and cities with weekly and daily newspapers schools of every grade, churches of nearly all denominations—in short all the incidents of civilization. Now capitalists are repearing to reclaim the Colorado desert in Riverside and San Diego counties, and make it produce the carriest ruits, and food for man and beast every day in the year with flowers of qvery the always in bloom. The same is being done in other sections. What enables all this to be done? Irrigation, Development, storage and distribution of water."

One of the avantages here is fine water. In the canon the mountain stream furnishes power for the electric light plant. And those streams together stream fornishes power for the electric light plant. And those streams together with artesian wells furnish water for irrigation and pure clear drinking water. One of these wells supplies good water plentifully at a depth of two to three hundred feet.

There is some interesting natural scenery in this part of Southern California. That observed in coming over San Bernardino range of the Sierra Madre mountains is rugged, and has some foliage, but the mountains here are generally barren looking as compared with the beautiful forest covered Alleghenies in West Virginia. The valleys are beautiful in the early spring, when the grass on the uncultivated parts is green and the fields of growing barley and Alfalfa present the same bright color. But the barley is about all harvested by the early part of June, and the grass is now dry and brown on hill and in valley, and will remain so during the summer, except some low-lands that are moist. Most of the barley is cut by mowing machines and baled for hay. It is not allowed to onloy is cut by nowing machines and baled for hay. It is not allowed to on-tirely ripen. Some is cut by headers and threshed. Alfalfa produces five or six crops of hay in one season.

In this part of the state the natural scenery of hill and valley does not apscenery of hill and valley does not appear to us as beautiful as the broad rolling hills of the Pan Handle in West Virginia and Belmont and Jefferson counties in Ohio. But the cultivated landscape in California is the thing of beauty. This is partly the work of nature. She furnishes sunshine, bright, warm and abundant. She also supplies we water clear surkling and plentiful. ne water, clear sparkling and plentiful, one water, clear sparkling and plentiful, (but much of it must be drilled for.) She furnishes numerous varieties of beautiful foliage, and it grows very rapidly, if man does his part to develop it—i. e., keeps the soil in condition and gives it plenty of water. Oranges are extensively cultivated in this part of the state. There were 400,000 trees in San Bernardino county bearing this year, and 2,000,000 that are not yet old enough to bear.

An orange tree filled with its ripe

An orange tree filled with its ripe golden fruit is one of the most beautiful sights we have seen. An orchard of them is a great revelation to a "tenderthem is a great revenition to a "center-foot"—as eastern people are sometimes called—when he first gazes at its beauties, we may say in open mouthed wonder, for if he happens to be with a friend he is invited to open his mouth and partake of the tempting fruit. The friend usually sets him an example, as we have met some ladies here who can eat a dozen oranges at one sitting The quality of oranges depends partly on the location and partly on the kind entityated. The footbills produce the best fruit, and the navel or seedless oranges are considered the best. It is worth while to live in an orange country to know how to select a good orange. Apricots are produced in large quantities, also prunes, olives and peaches. Some English wainuts and lemons, though lemons will flourish only in some localities. None of the fruits do some localities. None of the fruits do as well in some places as others, but places where lemons flourish seem rare. Many varities of shade trees are grown. One of the most pronounced is the perper tree. One of the pretiest the umbrella tree. It grows broad at the top like an umbrella, with thick foliage, and is beautiful in shape and symmetry. The blossom is similar to the line. There are broad palms, numerous evergreens, also the eucalyptus, interesting for its rapid growth, looks somewhat like the tall lombardy poplars, and is much used for fuel. A grove of this is considered about as somewhat like the tai to habaday pop-lars, and is much used for fuel. A grove of this is considered about as profitable as a fruit orchard. The live oak is found. It is short and dwarfed as compared with the white oak of the

The work of irrigation is interesting The work of irrigation is interesting to those who have seen the country watered only by the water pouring down from the clouds, as it does in the Ohio Valley. The water from artesian wells is piped to reservoirs for distributing, holding in some instances one-half million gallons. From these it is piped in different directions and directed by a dicte into the furrows along the rows of trees. The land in the valleys generally The land in the valleys generally slopes sufficiently from the foot-hills to make water flow readily.

But the climax of beauty perhaps, in Southern California, is a cultivated lawn. With plenty of watering and mowing the lawns are kept beautiful and green all the year. Their beauty is enhanced by the spreading palms, and by the roses—roses that will cost $3.00 a dozen at Easter in Wheeling you can get by the basket full. Add to these the buds of pansies of many colors, and other bright flowers, and you have a spot of beauty. Many beautiful designs are seen in the trimming of hedges. There are pillars and arches and curves and columns. At Ontario, six miles from here, is an avenue six miles long passing through the town. There are two drives with a row of trees on the outside of each and two rows between them. There is space between the two inner rows for a street car track. On this track a car space between the two inner rows for a street car track. On this track a car runs, which is drawn by horses to the head of the avenue. The return trip is made after drawing a platform from under the car, on which the horses are placed and they ride in the rear down the grade to the place from which they started. started.

The flower festivals held in southern

Those of your readers who attend the world's fair will find the California exhibit interesting. In Los Angeles, which is a live growing city, ex-Governor Pro Pico, of the old Spanish government, celebrated his ninety-third birthday in May. It was suggested that he be taken to the Columbian Exposition, but I understand he declined to go.

I am located at Chino, a new-town on the Rancho del Chino, in San Bernardino county. I thought of telling your readers something of life on a ranche, but space will not permit. If this letter proves interesting, may give you an account of that in the future.

To those who travel, or those who remain at home during the summer, "never be without a stinulant." Its timely use saves the system from many a shock, and as a preventative of disease pure whisky has always been recommended. His Silver Age, at $1 50; Duquesne, at $1 25, and Bear Croek, at $1 00 per inil quart each, cannot be equaled. Breadstuffs and Provisions.

Cilicado, August 10.—Everything on 'change showed strength to-day and closed at an advance. Wheat is nearly 1 cent better. A large source of the strength was a dispatch from New York saying on 1918 18,00,000 of clearing hother certificates issued have really been used, and that this amount can easily be retired, either by gold coming from Europe or by the additional currency now being taken out by the banks. Wheat at the opening was about 540 higher and broke 550 on the Nashville failures, but closed about 5416 higher than yesterday. English cables were a little more encouraging. There were reports of considerable more gold coming to America. Some operators looked for some improvement in the government cryo report and others for a lower condition.
